ADULT DAY SUPPORT CENTER CONTINUES TO EXPAND SERVICES

Growth is not a familiar word in today's economic environment, but Koinonia Homes, Inc. Adult Day Support Center continues to expand its services to individuals with developmental disabilities in Cuyahoga County.

As the number of individuals enrolled at the center increases, the staff increases as well to ensure Koinonia maintains its high standards of quality service. The center recently hired two Case Management Specialists to work closely with the individuals and their family members to build specific programs based on each client's unique needs.

Located in Brooklyn Heights, this new 16,000 square-foot facility features a multi-therapy room, computer room, game room and more. Programs and activities provided to individuals at the new facility include job development and readiness skill training, supported employment, recreational therapy, art therapy, music therapy, pet therapy, social skills development, culinary, as well as outings and field trips.

Recently, the center completed a drama club program in partnership with John Carroll University student volunteers.
